At the northernmost part of the United Arab Emirates (UAE) lies Ras Al Khaimah, one of the oldest major trading centres in the region. For hundreds of years, its location near the Strait of Hormuz has been an attractive route for traders distributing goods across the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, Europe and Asia.

Ras Al Khaimah positioned itself on the economic map by capitalising on its rich natural resources. The emirate's vast reserves of rock, clay, lime stones, and other minerals paved the way to the birth of its booming cement and ceramic industries, which helped urbanise cities across the globe.

Today, Ras Al Khaimah boasts the highest level of industrialisation in the UAE and is now home to hundreds of leading international manufacturers, all of which are benefiting from its logistical advantages and well-developed infrastructure. Ras Al Khaimah is also recognised as a cost-effective emirate, uniquely offering 25% to 50% lower cost of living, setting up and operating a business than elsewhere in the region.

FROM RAS AL KHAIMAH TO THE WHOLE REGION

Burj Khalifa, the world's tallest building, was built from ceramics and glass supplied by the famous RAK Ceramics and Guardian Glass that have a base in Ras Al Khaimah.

Dabur Naturelle's healthcare and personal care products are produced in their Ras Al Khaimah facility and distributed across the UAE and the whole world.

The iconic Palm Jumeirah was constructed from rocks supplied by the Ras Al Khaimah-based Stevin Rock.

Ahmad Tea's delightful tea and mixtures are blended in Ahmad Tea's Ras Al Khaimah plant and distributed all over the UAE.

Julphar Gulf Pharmaceutical Industries in Ras Al Khaimah produces high-quality medicines and health care products that are prescribed all over the UAE, MENA region and the world.

UAE's public transportation relies on vehicles and buses manufactured by Ashok Leyland in its plant in Ras Al Khaimah.
